

Willapa Behavioral Health

(A Partner of the Washington Service Corps)

AmeriCorps members serving through Willapa Behavioral Health make up the Pacific County Resiliency Corps, a team that provides various support to youth in an effort to increase personal resiliency which decreases the likelihood that they will fall into patterns of substance abuse and mental health issues. Members serve at local youth-serving organizations such as schools, Big Brothers Big Sisters, and Boys & Girls Club, providing tutoring, mentoring, and facilitation of after-school classes such as nutrition education and workplace readiness skills.
