

087 - Comm on Asian Pacific Amer Affairs

A001 Advocacy of Asian Pacific-American Community Issues

The Commission examines issues pertaining to the rights and needs of the Asian American and Pacific Islander community and makes recommendations to the governor, state agencies and local governments for changes in programs, policies, plans, and laws. With over 674,000 Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders (2010 census) representing over 47 distinct groups speaking more than 74 various languages and dialects, the Commission is the only agency in state government performing the essential activity of ensuring the community has access to government and the services it provides. In order to define issues of importance to the community, the Commission holds public meetings, meets with the community, and develops networks with groups that serve the population. The Commission also conducts public information and outreach programs with particular emphasis on education, health, human services, economic development, as well as develops special studies and reports to address issues of concern to the Asian American and Pacific Islander community.
