

Community Health Corps - National Association of Community Health Centers

SEAMAR is a network of community health centers committed to providing health and human services to the underserved throughout Western Washington, with a special emphasis on the Latino population. Members with special interests in public health, such as medicine/dentistry, mental health, social work, geriatric therapy, and child development, serve with SEAMAR and gain direct exposure to these fields. Within this structure, we also aim to connect our clients with as many services as possible, including Basic Health Plan, health education, and nutritional support.
