

Intermountain AmeriCorps (A Partner of the Washington Service Corps)

Intermountain AmeriCorps (IMAC) service delivery area is large and rural covering over 12,000 square miles in their four-county service region. The project is guided by a commitment to community service, teamwork, and collaboration across school districts and several community organizations throughout North Central Washington State.

The Service and Education Team – also known as SET - members serve all age levels, anywhere from Kindergarten up to adults in the community. The common goal is to improve the basic and essential skills of those they serve. Participation in these projects enables school districts and organizations to develop support systems and share best practices. All project activities are designed to encourage leadership, responsibility, and a strong service ethic among our participants.
