

STATE BUDGET UPDATE

More Big Challenges Ahead

November 2014

Washington's economy is rebounding ... but at a very slow pace

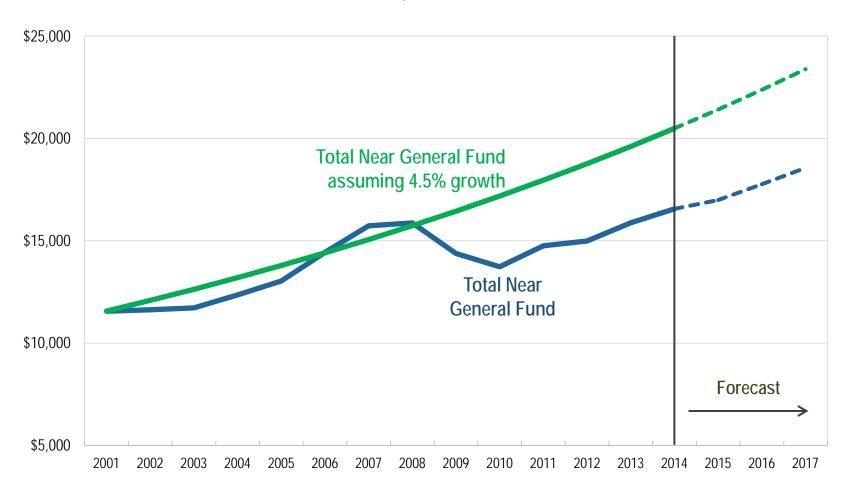

It took more than 5 years to recover all the jobs lost during the Great Recession

Job losses and duration of Post WWII recessions in Washington

State revenue collections are also rebounding, but at a much slower pace than after previous recessions

State revenue remains well below historic growth trend

Looking ahead to the 2015–17 budget ... It could be more challenging than the 2013–15 budget

Why will the 2015–17 budget be so difficult?

We solved 2013–15 budget shortfall largely by relying on solutions not available again. For example, we:

- ➤ Redirected $387 million in capital budget including $277 million from the Public Works Assistance Account to cover operating expenses.
- ➤ Captured $351 million in savings by expanding Medicaid under the Affordable Care Act.
- Raised $272 million by temporarily extending the hospital safety net assessment.

The budget includes new revenue — $159 million from the estate tax (Bracken) fix and $99 million in telecom reform savings.

The June 2013 forecasts also helped — $230 million in additional revenue and $229 million in caseload savings.

Even after all that, we once again needed to suspend teacher COLAs, and did not provide state employee pay raises

And still we fell short of our $1.5 billion target for meeting our basic education obligation

State revenue collections are expected to grow by more than $2.5 billion ... What's the problem?

Projected Additional Revenue

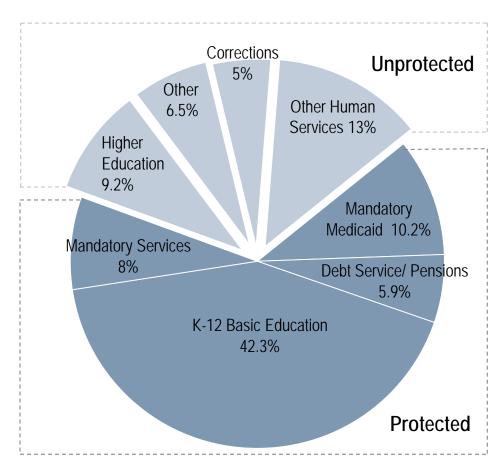

Projected Additional Spending Needs

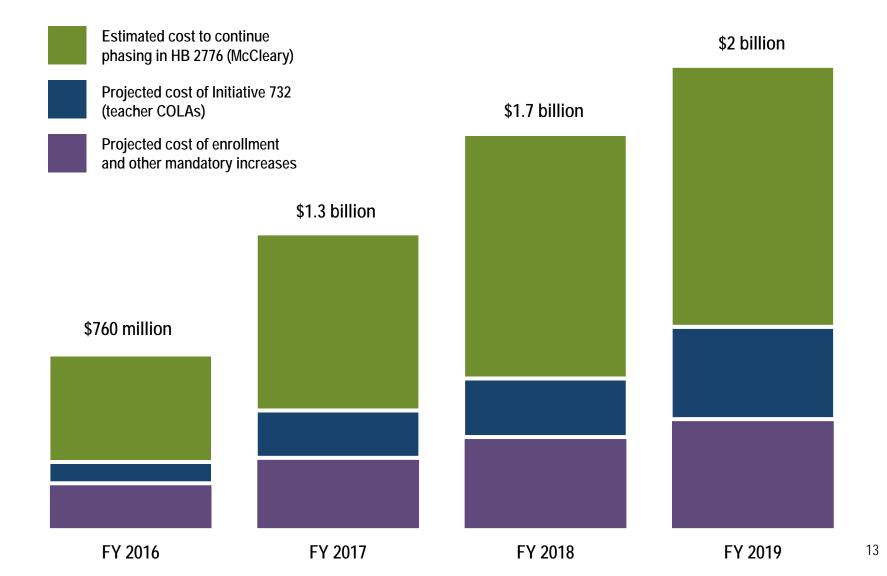

About 2/3 of the budget is protected by constitutional and federal requirements . . . So we must look to the other 1/3 for savings

Meeting our statutory education obligations — $5.7 billion needed over next 2 biennia

Revenue collections are at historically low levels when compared to overall economy

In 1995, Washington ranked 11th in state and local tax collections ... By 2011, we ranked 35th
